

SRC BULLETIN

From the Chaplain's Corner

A wise man said to me many years ago: you cannot split the truth. How often this reality challenges us today on a personal level, let alone on a scientific level! As the renowned scholar Bernard Lonergan SJ made it so clear: before we can discover the truth, we have to discover and confirm the reality it is based on. We come to trust the pattern that what is real, is true, is good – ultimately is of God. Of course what we are referring to is our commitment to be critical realists who always respect the further question, no matter how uncomfortable. Yes, our faith seeks to be understood. As students of theology, this demands great courage and energy of you, I well know – right now, and always. I support you wholehearted in this and wish you every blessing . . . our hearts are restless . . . (Sue Richardson pbvm)

Weekly Quote

“That is why faith, wherever it develops into hope, causes not rest but unrest, not patience but impatience. It does not calm the unquiet heart, but is itself this unquiet heart in people. Those who hope in Christ can no longer put up with reality as it is, but begin to suffer under it, to contradict it.” (Jürgen Moltmann)
